HEARST ORATORY CONTESTANTS— Joseph Blair and Daniel Mackey discuss the plan of attack to be used in the Annual Hearst Tournament of Orators. Irvin Hammond, evening school student, will also represent Evergreen in the contest tonight at City Hall.

Loyola Seeks To Retain Hearst Oratorical Crown

Baltimore will be the host city for the national finals of the annual Hearst Newspapers' Tournament of Orators. The finals will be held in the Lyric Theatre, Mt. Royal and Cathedral Streets, on Friday, May 12.

Sodality Dance Plan Complete

T. B. A. B. D. I. L. H. (The biggest and best dance in Loyola history). This is how the fourth annual Queen's Ball, which will be held in the gymnasium on May 12, is being advertised. Richard Cadigan, advertising committee chairman, has announced that Bill Maisel's orchestra will furnish music for continuous dancing from 9 until 1.

The dance is open to the entire student body with a small number of outsiders being allowed to attend. Tickets, priced at $3.20 per couple, are available in the bookstore; tables will be reserved for the purchasers.

Erect Grotto

As in previous years, the decorations will be greatly detailed, according to Edward Pula, chairman of the decorating committee. Tentative plans call for a flowery grotto erected in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary, who will reign as Queen of the Ball. This will be set off with special lighting effects.

Multicolored streamers and flowers will be placed throughout the gymnasium. Main feature of the cabaret style dance will be the promenade, which will be climaxed with the distribution of favors by the court of honor. This court will consist of four girls who will be chosen by the sodalists of Georgetown University, Washington.

Favors Undisclosed

Although the exact nature of the favors are undisclosed, George Strohecker, prefect of the Junior Sodality, stated, "They are highly unusual, in fact, we believe that they have never before been presented at a dance."

Several committees have been appointed to insure smooth functioning of the affair.

Loyola will be seeking to retain its crown when the Maryland college-section of the Hearst Newspapers' Tournament of Orators meets tonight at City Hall to select their representative to the Eastern Zone eliminations.

"James Madison" has been chosen as topic of this year's contest. Contest rules state that each speech must be original, not longer than six minutes and delivered without reference to notes.

This year for the first time, Loyola will enter a student from the evening school, Irvin Hammond. James Dietz, winner of the Lee Gold Medal for Oratory, will also represent Evergreen.

In addition to Hammond and Dietz, Mr. James Perrott, moderator of the debating society, has indicated that he will send Daniel Mackey and Joseph Blair, chosen in the College's eliminations. Robert Bourbon has been picked to serve as an alternate.

Last year, Francis X. Gallagher, '49, was declared winner, advancing to the Eastern Zone finals held in New York, where he was defeated by Dorothy Midgley of Albany State Teachers' College.

Last year's Hearst Oratory Contest topic was "Alexander Hamilton."

May Devotions Program Will Begin Next Monday

Daily devotions in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary will begin this coming Monday. Each school day during May, from 10:30 to 10:40, the student body traditionally gathers in front of the Statue of Our Lady of Evergreen, where together they orally recite the Rosary followed by the Litany.

After recitation of the Litany, an officer from one of the campus organizations will deliver a prepared four-minute sermon. The singing of hymns will close the devotions.

Parents' Day

Annual Visit Planned Soon

An elaborate program has been prepared for the Annual Parents' day celebration to be held on the Evergreen campus, Sunday, May 14. This year marks the second time the affair has been held since the war, when it was temporarily discontinued.

The program will begin at 2:30 p.m. with members of the student body escorting parents and friends on visits to the library, science laboratories and athletic field, where a lacrosse match is scheduled to be played. A display of THE GREYHOUND publications of the past twenty-three years will be held in the library.

To Hold Tea

Following the extended visits, an informal tea will be held on the lawn in front of the faculty house. Miss Georgia McCampbell Perkins, together with a committee of ten, will assist with the serving of refreshments.

While the reception is taking place, continuous music will be supplied by the Loyola College Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Felice Iula, assistant professor of the music department. At quarter past four the Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S.J., President of the College, will deliver the formal reception speech at ceremonies to be held in the gymnasium.

New Officers Inducted

After the welcoming address, Father Talbot will induct the victorious candidates into the offices of president of the Student Council and president of the Athletic Association, whereupon a model Student Council meeting will be held.

In the course of the afternoon's activities, James H. Dietz, editor-in-chief of THE GREYHOUND will deliver an illustrated lecture on the Atomic Bomb. The program will close at five with Solemn Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Jenkins Gold Medal Debate Set For Friday, May 5

The annual Jenkins Prize Debate will be held next Friday evening in the Library of the Administration Building. The contest is limited to members of the Robert Bellarmine Society who have participated in at least one intercollegiate debate.

Each contestant will deliver an original five-minute oration on the national topic, "Resolved: That the basic non-agricultural industries should be nationalized." Winner of the prize debate will be awarded the Jenkins Gold Medal for Debate, founded by Austin Jenkins.

Mass Celebrated Today For Accident Victim

A special Mass was celebrated this morning in the Students' Chapel for the repose of the soul of Raymond J. Mungovan, '52, who lost his life in an automobile accident on Sunday, April 23. The Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S.J., President of Loyola, was the celebrant.

Mungovan's funeral was held at All Saints' Church, Gwynn Oak Junction, yesterday. Members of the sophomore class and other Loyolans attended.

Glee Club Concert And Dance Set For Next Friday Evening

The Annual Spring Concert and Dance, sponsored by the Loyola College Glee Club, will take place next Friday evening at the Alcazar beginning at 8:30. Highlight of the program will be the premier of the new College hymn, Our Lovely Lady of Evergreen, written by Adrian Peyton with music by Felice Iula, director of the music club and assistant professor of music.

Sodality Plans May 7 Retreat

The annual city-wide Day of Recollection will be held at Loyola on Sunday, May 7, under the joint sponsorship of the Junior and Senior Sodalities. Sodalists from all Catholic colleges in the Baltimore area will attend.

Invitations have been mailed to all members of the Loyola Sodalities as well as to the students of Mount Saint Agnes and Notre Dame of Maryland. These schools have co-operated with Loyola in sponsoring this event in past years.

Starts At Nine

The one day retreat will begin in the morning with the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass at nine o'clock. This will be followed by breakfast in the Oak Room of the Library building.

Guest speaker and retreat master for the affair will be the Rev. Walter J. Burghardt, S.J., who is stationed at the Woodstock Theological Seminary. The program for the day consists of talks by the guest speaker, prayer and meditation, recitation of the rosary and open forum discussions.

Ends At Three

The retreat will close at 3:00 p.m. with Solemn Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. Previously, the Day of Recollection had been scheduled for April 30, but the officers did not wish to interfere with the Alumni Communion Breakfast scheduled for that day.

George M. Strohecker, prefect of the Junior Sodality, emphasized that "although the Day of Recollection is sponsored by the Sodalities, anyone who wishes to attend may do so. The larger the attendance, the more successful the event will be."

Soloists Featured

Soloists on the program include pianist William A. Yannuzzi, who will play a song written by Brahms and Donyani, and F. Joseph McCall, who will sing an aria from Puccini's La Boheme. Salvatore A. Battaglia, bass-baritone soloist, will sing two popular selections, including Some Enchanted Evening from the Broadway success, South Pacific.

The Club's Barber Shop Quartet, composed of George Bauernschub, Lawrence Godey, Bertram Morales and Jacques Gunning, will offer a medley of songs in close harmony. In all, over twenty songs will be sung or played.

Dance To Follow

The concert program will end with the singing of Alma Mater Loyola, followed by a dance, which will last from 10 until 1. Bob Iula, brother of Felice Iula, will conduct the orchestra for the dancing.

Any Loyola student who buys his ticket in advance at the bookstore can procure one for $1.00; this admits him and his date. For those who are not Loyolans, tickets for the affair are priced at $1.00 per person, available at the door or from members of the glee club.

George M. Bauernschub, president of the club, has been named chairman of the concert committee. Assisting him will be Lee M. Eldridge, J. Jacques Gunning, John F. Spellacy, Edward Pula, Lawrence Godey, Thomas Volatile, Bertram Morales and Joseph V. Paska.

"Alma Mater, Dear Loyola . . ."

THE LOYOLA COLLEGE GLEE CLUB, under the direction of Mr. Felice Iula, director of the music department and assistant professor of music, sings the ALMA MATER, Loyola. Next Friday evening the group will present their Annual Spring Concert and Dance at the Alcazar beginning at 8:30.

Rector Notes Future Plans In Alumni Talk

In addressing the Alumni banquet of April 13, the Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S.J., outlined the condition of the College at the present time, and revealed a small part of the plans for the future. The Rector said that "Loyola College is becoming normal. With the commencement on July 30, it will be happily finished with the so-called Accelerated Program, and will be on the four year program known to you ante-bellum alumni."

Fr. Talbot foresaw a student body next year of about 800. "This number is really as high as we wish it to be, and as high as we can handle with out present equipment."

Mentions Lack Of Prejudice

"During the past year, the administration and the faculty have endeavored to maintain high academic standards and to teach in such a way that the students are producers rather than mere absorbers."

"At this point, because of some adverse notices and rumors, I would make two reaffirmations. The first is that Loyola College is a Catholic College and that the philosophy, religion, history, literature, economics, sociology, science and other instruction derives from the age-old Catholic principles and ideals. The second reaffirmation is that students are accepted on their academic ability and their moral character, and are not debarred by reason of race, religion or color."

Hope For Expansion

"As there is no discrimination in the admission of students, so there is never any discrimination in the classrooms or on the campus. To illustrate this, I add that about fifteen per cent of the student body is non-Catholic, that many of these are Jewish, and that for the first time in Maryland a Negro has been admitted to a so-called white college of the undergraduate grade."

The President related that plans for the security of the lay faculty had been put into operation, and that the Evening School enrollment has risen to about 700 per week. He mentioned that the rising Chapel is the first unit in the College's Centenary development.

Alumni Plan Two Affairs

Alumni Association activities continue with the annual Communion Mass and breakfast this Sunday and the yearly dance, planned for May 6. Minimum cost prices have been set for both the breakfast and the dance.

The Rev. Gustav Weigel, S.J., will address the breakfasters on "Substance versus Vacuum." Confessions will be heard prior to Mass in the Evergreen Chapel, and breakfast will be served in the Oak Room of the Library Building immediately afterwards. A charge of $1.00 will be made.

Sid Cowan and his orchestra will play for the May 6 dance, to be held in the Alumni Gym. Set-ups will be available at the 9 to 1 affair, at which the dress is optional.

Reservations will be held until ten o'clock. Unreserved tables will be open to first-comers at $2.40. They can be obtained by calling Richard Klitch at Saratoga 2898, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

According to the advance men of the Alumni Association, "since we know you're coming, we've hired a band, got a hall, set a time, fixed a price and took it easy."

Chess Club In Match With Jesuit Colleges

Loyola's chess team participated in the fourth annual Jesuit Intercollegiate Chess tournament, held during the Easter holidays at Fordham University. Seniors Mark Schatz and Charles Clifton and sophomores Thomas Junas, James Liszewski and Dennis Scully represented the College.

Loyola tied with Boston College in their match. Boston College won the tournament. Due to previous losses, Loyola did not place.

The schools represented—Loyola, Boston College, Fordham, Georgetown and St. Peters—constitute the members of the Jesuit Eastern-Seaboard Intercollegiate Chess Tournament.

An intra-mural tournament was recently sponsored by the Chess Club. Thomas Junas defeated Mark Schatz for the school championship after six weeks of eliminations under the Swiss system.

A "ladder" has been included in the activities of the club. The system enables each member to rate himself in comparison with the other members. The spirit of competition is fostered by allowing members to challenge each other for higher positions on the "ladder."

What did it do?

Student Council Ending Busy Year Under Bianco

Achievements

by Eugene P. Corrigan, Jr.

Loyola's Student Council heard itself described as one of the best on the East Coast during the past year. It has also recorded an impressive list of accomplishments under the leadership of Emidio A. Bianco.

The Rev. Nicholas Kunkel, S.J., described the group as an exceptional example of its kind after observing one of the November meetings. He was conducting a nationwide research into student government toward his Catholic University thesis. The same opinion had been expressed last year at an NSA caucus held in Washington on student government.

Besides ironing out the wrinkles remaining in the constitution which had been approved in the Spring of 1949, this year's session changed the requirements for class elections, attempted to obtain alleviation of the present cut system (which resulted from a request from last year's Council for the same thing) and raised a fund for a stricken student, among other activities.

A mailbox was set up for student and activity use in the Library Building Lobby. An unsuccessful attempt to improve cheering at basketball games was sponsored, as was an equally unsuccessful one to have the change to flat exemptions revoked.

Weekly Council record dances were approved but not yet inaugurated. The campus road was made one-way, and three election ties were decided. Student rating of teachers passed into oblivion. And so on, with every Thursday afternoon occupied with debate and serious deliberation.

Classics Academy Revived After Inactive Period

The Classics Academy, which has been inactive for the past semester, is being reactivated, according to Dr. Edward Kaltenbach. Elections were scheduled for last Wednesday.

Dr. Kaltenbach and Dr. John V. Walsh will serve as moderators for the group. It is intended, according to the College catalog, "to deepen and extend the knowledge of the classical authors by means of public expositions. Membership is restricted to honor students in Latin."

The club was first organized in 1931. It has not sent a representative to the Student Council since the end of last term.

John Hull was the last representative of the club to the Council. He succeeded David McManus when the latter was graduated.

Statement

by Emidio A. Bianco

I wish to extend my sincerest thanks to the student body and to the members of the Student Council for their sympathetic co-operation during the past year. Father Talbot and Dr. Kirwin have both shown a true interest and understanding of student problems, and at this time I want to thank them both for their gracious assistance at the times when it was needed.

Unfortunately, or perhaps fortunately for some, I have not fulfilled all my campaign promises. As we are so well taught in ethics class, "Man is a social being; ergo, he cannot walk alone."

The Student Council has presented numerous resolutions to the administration regarding administrative and academic procedure. Regardless of whether the action taken on these resolutions was favorable or not, the Council has no right to demand a change in policy. I feel it appropriate, however, to comment on one administrative procedure. It is administrative policy to impose disciplinary regulations on social affairs sponsored by the various student activities. The Council fully realizes the necessity of such regulations and wholeheartedly supports the motive.

It seems, however, that the administration might delegate authority to the Student Council to legislate and impose such regulations. Social affairs are nonacademic, and their success should be a student responsibility. If this power is not delegated, then the Student Council of Loyola College is devoid of any dignity. It is an organization whose sole purpose is to toy with Robert's Rules of Order.

The best of luck to the new candidates, and may the best man win.

Deans Outline Student Rights

Student government was exhaustively discussed by a panel of educators during the National Catholic Educational Association regional meeting, held at Rosemont College on February 18. As recorded by Sister Bridget Marie, Dean of Notre Dame of Maryland, the opinion of the group on basic issues was as follows:

There are two extremes in the philosophies of student government: (1) absolute student self-determination, (2) disguised regimentation of students by faculty. The autocratic, or perhaps over-protective attitude of Catholic college faculties is gradually breaking down. The trend is toward a more democratic treatment of student government.

More Participation Needed

With the departure of the veteran, colleges are experiencing a loss in student leadership, but perhaps only in one sense—that of immediate powers of group persuasion. In another sense, there is no loss, since our purpose is to train for leadership, not to exploit leadership.

Despite our efforts in this direction, there is still a high degree of inarticulation among Catholics in student movements. Two possible causes are worth consideration: 1) their lack of an easy, working knowledge of parliamentary law; 2) their position as a minority group. (Editor's Note: One remedy suggested was more Catholic participation in student movements.)

Student Opinion Must Influence

If there is a student-faculty contact, student opinion must not only be heard but must carry weight. It is better not to have any expression from the students than to permit it and then do nothing about it. A sense of frustration which will carry over into life, will result. The place of a faculty member on a student council is that of an advisor rather than that of a director.

Next Year's Leaders Eight To Run For SC, AA Offices

When James J. Farley, former Postmaster-General of the United States, visited Loyola several years ago, he summed up Loyola in two sentences.

"Loyola College is a political hotbed," he remarked. "Every student is either president of some activity, a disappointed office-seeker, or a campaign manager."

Farley's comment could be verified by even the most casual observer at Loyola these days. For it's spring, and a young man's fancy turns not to thoughts of love but to the coming elections for President of the Student Council and the A. A.

To date eight students—Royce Upton, Eugene Conroy, Joseph Paska, Xavier Trainer, Edward Miller, Herbert Meinert, Thomas Oaster and Eugene Corrigan—have signified their candidature by presenting petitions with 75 signatures to the secretary of the Student Council. For the benefit of its readers THE GREYHOUND will present a brief biography and the campaign platform of each candidate.

Royce Upton is a 1947 graduate of Calvert Hall College. At Evergreen he has been a member of the cheerleading squad.

"I promise to cut the red tape in Student Council proceedings . . ." he says, ". . . and promise better representation in the Council . . ."

Eugene Corrigan is a page editor of THE GREYHOUND, president of the Cosmopolitan Club and an NFCCS delegate.

Corrigan's platform is as follows: "I hope to encourage student and alumni activity aimed at a better Loyola and to increase social activities in order to make Loyola a more enjoyable and spirited college."

Edward Miller and Thomas Oaster are running on the same ticket for the A. A. and Council offices. Both are members of the swimming and lacrosse teams, the Block "L" Club and Loyola High alumni.

"Our principal aim is to obtain a new athletic field and to initiate an annual Homecoming Day," they stated. "Also, we shall endeavor to achieve better student unity by having the administration schedule set times for class meetings."

Eugene Conroy is the 1951 Sports Editor of THE GREYHOUND, a member of the yearbook staff, a sodalist and class officer. His platform is "... a reawakening of college level social and cultural activity, both on and off-campus, and a more vibrant representation before the student council and the administration . . ."

Joseph Paska is a member of the Glee Club and the Sodality. He is a graduate of Calvert Hall College. "In all earnestness, I pledge my unstinting efforts to correct the flagging school-spirit, and hope that by next year, something other than the disgracefully low turnout of the student body and parents at the

Pula, McManus And Bathon Attend NFCCS Conference

Edward Pula, Joseph McManus and Neil Bathon attended the National Congress of the National Federation of Catholic College Students at the Hotel William Penn in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, two weeks ago.

Taking as their theme, "Social Action and the Catholic Student Community," 700 Catholic College students from 48 states, met to make plans to carry out the themes on their home campuses.

The delegates planned a full year of coordinated activity on the Confraternity of the Christian Doctrine, international and interracial relations, Catholic Action study, inter-American action, student government and missions.

The panel on the Confraternity of the Christian Doctrine emphasized the role Catholic college students can play. The need was shown for people, trained in their religion, to teach Catholics who are not acquainted with their religion.

It was recommended that the college students teach religion to Catholic students attending non-Catholic grammar and high schools and colleges. In addition they were urged to participate in the "Apostolate of Good Will," a section of the confraternity which works toward the conversion of non-Catholics.

The National Commission of the Missions urged that the students share in the missionary work of the church by carrying out a program of prayer, study and action. The panel recommended a special mission intention as advised by the Holy Father, and that a living Rosary be recited for the missions on all campuses.

Alexander J. Allen, secretary of the Urban League of Pittsburgh, addressed the Commission on Interracial Justice. He presented the aims of the Negro regarding employment, health, housing and educational needs.

Five of the nine regions of the federation which hold a commission on Inter-American Action have organized an Inter-American Union of Catholic College Students to promote sympathetic understanding among the peoples of all the Americas by fostering friendship among North American Catholics and Latin American students who are studying in the United States.

A report was also made to the congress on the arrangements made for the Holy Year tours of Europe by 3000 Catholic College Students.

"The Full Dress King"
1635 E. Baltimore Street

The Critilog

by Malcolm S. Rose

Anton Karas has started a fad in this country with his superb zither playing in Carol Reed's masterful production of The Third Man. But this is just one of many factors that makes this film so outstanding. It is, without a doubt, the best combination of European and American talents which has been presented on a local screen in recent times.

An excellent cast, notably Joseph Cotten, Orson Welles and Trevor Howard; breath-taking photography which contributes a great deal to the plot; and the element of suspense handled in an unusual pseudo-humorous method; become ingredients of this highly engrossing work of the solution of a penicillin racket in war-scarred Vienna.

Perhaps the most significant musical event of the past decade in Baltimore occurred with Arturo Toscanini's performance as conductor of the National Broadcasting Company Symphony Orchestra at the Lyric Theater earlier this month. Doubtlessly, this will be the last time the music world will see this immortal on tour.

Austere, dictatorial, and astoundingly precise, this Latin genius thrilled a record audience with the works of Rossini, Debussy, Strauss, and Beethoven. His treatment of Beethoven's Eroica Symphony was a perfect blend of rich melancholia and spirited melody.

Truly an absorbing film for an adult mind is the Pandora Films' production of The Titan, which is now appearing at the World Theater. Dealing with the life and works of Michelangelo, this picture is most unusual due to the fact that it has no live characters.

Instead, with Frederick March doing a polished job of narration, the camera leads the viewer through the beautiful Italian country-side, into the cities and right up to the works of this Renaissance master.

However, a great dramatic impact is supplied with background voices assuming roles under Mr. March's direction. Photographic ingenuity heightens emphatic moments, but, if for no other reason, one should see this remarkable photoplay for the everlasting value of Michelangelo's works.

Let's Attend

Of the many student activities at Loyola to which we may point with justifiable pride, the Glee Club is well near the top. Few campus organizations demand more of their members' time and talents. The club practices three to four times each week, is present at each First Friday Mass, sings in the Loyola Night program, makes numerous appearances at other colleges around the city, and participates in Associated Male Choruses of America activities both in Baltimore and elsewhere. In addition to this crowded schedule the group presents a Christmas-carol concert and its annual Spring Concert.

This year the Spring Concert will be held at the Alcazar on May 5. Under the able direction of Mr. Iula, the club has prepared an excellent and varied program. Included are group selections like Sing, Brothers, Sing and De Gospel Train, solos, barbershop-quartet numbers, and the magnificent piano artistry of William Yanuzzi, a Loyola graduate now studying at the Peabody.

Loyolans and their friends should not miss this traditional event unless they feel disinclined to an evening pleasantly and profitably spent.

From the Library

Talking about books is more fun, of an often idle sort, than studying them. Early in childhood we learn to speak, later to think; few of us, as years pass, habitually reverse that order. Rarely does a teeming brain overtake the tripping tongue. A smattering of misinformation can fuel a chattering of long duration, and the current fad for summaries of digests permits the unintelligent to discourse intelligibly around a myriad of topics—including books they have not read.

The Great Books program injects content and coherence into these literary discussions in which the barely literate will involve themselves. Though the Great Books are not all the best books, their study is one of the dozen things worth the time they cost. If, however, discussants suppose everything printed can be read at the same pace as "Li'l Abner," they may rate Plato a close second to Saroyan. Or, given an inept leader and a pathologically voluble member in the group, discussion of St. Thomas on Law will bog down into reiteration of Mrs. Clancy's views on vivisection. I've seen it done.

In Gardiner's The Great Books: a Christian Appraisal (and a handy muzzle for the Mrs. Clancys), a specialist on each Great Book indicates what the author is actually saying. These experts don't tell us what we're to think; they simply tell us what we're talking about. That, as anyone knows who has been around the Great Books circuit, is frequently necessary. Perhaps at this season you restrict your discussions to "them birds" and the Queen's Ball; even so, a glance through Gardiner may entice you into some pleasurable hours of reading.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Great Books Program, a liberal education consisting in the study and discussion of 100 of the world's greatest works, was originated at St. John's College, Annapolis, a number of years ago.)

Another Panay?

The paths followed by unjust aggressors are surprisingly similar. In 1937 America was shocked when Japan, then devouring China, sank without warning and without provocation the U. S. S. Panay, causing the needless loss of a considerable number of American lives. A little over two weeks ago, again without warning and without provocation, fliers of another nation gorged with undigested conquest but still unsated shot down an unarmed United States patrol plane over the Baltic Sea, killing ten Americans.

Japan, of course, apologized politely in 1937 for the inability of her airmen to distinguish the American flag on the Panay and paid a high indemnity for the incident. She was quite willing to make good the loss of life and property involved; it was a small price to pay to determine just how far we could be pushed and to drive us from the Yangtze River.

Communist Russia, on the other hand, has responded to angry American protests in quite a different manner. Far from evincing any intention of paying an indemnity, she has countercharged, first, that the Navy plane was over Soviet-conquered Latvia at the time, secondly, that the American aircraft fired first. Not only has the Kremlin coldly and categorically denied the State Department's charges, but it has decorated the Soviet fliers who committed the infamy. It appears that Russia is not testing our desire for peace, but rather is stating in no uncertain terms that the Baltic Sea now lies behind the Iron Curtain, international law to the contrary notwithstanding.

The State Department and Navy decision to arm patrol craft flying over the Baltic is heartening, for it shows that our world outlook has matured greatly in thirteen years. Certainly, we do not want war, but we have outgrown the tortoiselike "peace at any price" attitude of the thirties. The next move is up to Russia.

Congratulations

Another year has rolled around, and Student Council President Bianco soon will step down and yield his office to the students' choice for 1950-51. What we should expect from the new president may be determined from a careful examination of the attributes which have made his predecessor such a successful student leader.

From the very beginning of his incumbency "Meade" Bianco won the respect of both the Council and the Administration by taking his responsibility seriously and by striving to foster a spirit of co-operation between the School authorities and the students' representatives. He has been an excellent parliamentarian, conducting even the most difficult meetings firmly yet justly. He has taken an active interest in Loyola and has worked assiduously to promote that same interest on the part of others. Above all, he has always been a Christian gentleman.

We should like to add our congratulations to those of his fellow students and wish the best of luck to his successor.

Como, Eileen Wilson Put Out New Records

by Richard Coleman

A couple of pretty fine discs have been issued in the past week or so by the tops in artists.

First, I should like to give another plug to one of the greatest of all crooners—Perry Como. He has issued two discs in the past two weeks. The first is just fair. It contains a polka entitled Hoop-Dee-Do, which will probably draw a certain amount of the buying power of those who will use it to dance. As far as the rendition is concerned, Como just cannot do rhythm tunes. One big reason for this is that maybe most of us still have a tendency to compare Como with Crosby. But it seems to be accepted that you must discount Crosby and then start comparing crooners.

The other side of this disc has a nice ballad, not great, called On the Outgoing Tide. It's okay, but not sensational.

The second disc is entirely different. Como comes calling with a great tune and a great rendition. The tune may be old, if my memory serves me correctly. It's called If You Were Only Mine. On this tune Como has gone back to the old Temptation and Prisoner of Love style. He really gives out.

A newcomer to the business, Miss Eileen Wilson, has done an oldie and a new one for Decca. The oldie is one we used to hum a lot called I Didn't Know What Time It Was. She does a nice job—kinda straight but acceptable. The other side of this one is good. The tune is called Never Have I Ever Felt Like This Before. Eileen fools around very nicely with this one. The rendition and the tune are worthy of your attention. She is backed by Sy Oliver and his recording band. The band sounds like a modified Gordon Jenkins—very smooth, good dancing.

This may be the last column for yours truly, since graduation comes up pretty shortly.

RUNNING WITH

by Bob Bourbon

A figure scurried silently by. Above the steady din of the mob could be heard the crisp, cool command of a coach issuing orders to a group of thin-clad athletes. Yes, it was easy for even the most casual of observers to see that here was being enacted another drama of everyday life, another stirring saga of men gripped in the spell of almost overpowering emotions. The scene: Catholic University's campus. The occasion: Loyola's Track team had just won its second straight meet in as many days.

Track has never been a strong sport here at Evergreen. Many have thought that maybe it's because we have never had a strong track team. We've often thought of that possibility. There have been moments of disappointment. Take for example the hurdles man we had. He was good, but a trifle eccentric: in cool weather he insisted on running with his overcoat on.

All went fine for awhile, until one day he became entangled on a loose hem while negotiating one of the higher variety of the standard obstacle. He's been limping ever since.—No leg.

Trackmen Deserve Much Credit

All kidding aside, the fellows who have been out practicing track every day deserve a world of credit, because they have done very well in a sport which reaps little credit. In winning the Catholic U. Invitational meet last Saturday they defeated four other Mason-Dixon rivals, the chief of them being perennially strong Catholic U., last year's titleholder. A day before they had beaten Mount St. Mary's and Towson Teachers in a dual meet. It has simply come as a result of hard work, taken in large doses.

Coach Bill McElroy's squad has shown every indication thus far that it will be a team to be reckoned with in the May 12 M-D Championships. In Walt Smyth, Tom Maskell, George Brown, Jack Brunk, Tom Volatile, Joe Paszek, Mike Callahan, George Kimmerlein, Malcolm Rose, and Bernie Bateman he has a group who know that patience is a virtue.

They've made it pay off.

No Jaywalking

Incidentally, our baseball team at present is riding along on the crest of a fine winning streak, their latest victory coming at the expense of Johns Hopkins last Tuesday afternoon, 11 to 1.

The win was rather amazing, considering that the Jays outthit the Greyhounds, 8 to 7, in an eighth inning contest.

Giving credit where it is due, it was one of few athletic victories over the Jays this year. But a large score always helps to cushion one's chagrin.

Thanks For The Memory

This being our last issue of sports reporting for the Greyhound there's no sense in going into involved histrionics on the solemnity of the occasion, but a note of our own thanks and appreciation might do well as a parting word. During our tenure it has been both enjoyable and educational working with Loyola athletes and with those who make our sports program work. Just how much labor there is to making it work is not always realized.

Loyola's record during the past year has been one which a school of twice its enrollment would well be proud. Engaging in slightly less than 150 intercollegiate contests in 10 sports takes quite a bit of effort and planning, both by the Athletic Department, and by the student.

Part Play, Part Work Too

For a student, generally, playing a sport demands the expense of more time than does any other campus activity. The return is usually small, because not everyone is a star; an average team is composed of average players. And for every squad of 25 or 30 (Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer), only about two out of five play regularly. Some don't play at all. For those that don't play, sports can be real work. Yet it, too, is important work that can't be overlooked.

So to all who, over the past year, have helped to maintain our Evergreen sports curriculum at its traditionally high level of efficiency, success, and cooperation we would like to express our sincere gratitude. You've made our job easier.

Life is full of transitions. Right now we're moving from the phase in which we're writing about Loyola teams, to the phase in which we'll be reading about them. It should be no less an enjoyable one.

Thanks!

Binglers Cop No. 7, 8 Of Year; Defeat Scranton And Albright

Scranton University

Winning their third game in three consecutive days, the Loyola baseballers defeated Scranton University, 13 to 1, at Scranton, Pa., last Saturday. The Hounds took advantage of seven errors to score in every frame except the fifth and ninth.

John Amer chalked up his second win of the young season with a very creditable three hitter. He walked four and struck out four, being in command all the way.

Bill Tucker, Mike Zedalis, and Jimmy Bullington each got two hits to pace the ten-hit attack of the visitors.

Loyola gave the Pennsylvanians a hustling exhibition by stealing six bases, taking advantage of the throwing arms of the hosts.

John Amer saw his shutout bid go out the window in the last of the seventh when an error by shortstop Ed Hagerty permitted a lone tally to cross the plate.

Albright College

The Loyola College baseball team won its seventh victory in nine starts by defeating Albright College, 7 to 4, last Friday at Reading, Pa. Once again the Greyhounds showed their will to win by rallying for five runs in the seventh and eighth innings, in a contest accompanied by a chilling mountain breeze.

Jerry Malone, freshman right hander, toed the mound for Loyola, allowing seven hits and fanning four batsmen as he chalked up his initial win of the season. Hampered by wildness in the early innings, Malone came through at the most needed moments.

Biggest guns in the Loyola attack were Tommy Lind, veteran third baseman and George Franz, hard-hitting catcher. Lind contributed a triple and two singles, and Franz weighed in with a double and a timely single which put the fray on ice.

Albright pitcher Bill Muller struck out ten Loyola batters but gave up 11 hits in his attempt to check the four-game winning streak of the Green and Grey.

Greyhound Trackmen Upset Catholic U. Cards; Eagles Lose As Golfers Extend Streak To Four

Loyola's track and field squad, with 56 1/3 points, pulled a minor surprise last Saturday afternoon when it captured the annual Catholic University Invitational Meet, held in Washington, D. C.

The host team, which was also the defending champ, managed to annex the runner-up spot by scoring 48 points. American University garnered 29 points for third place.

The principal pointgetters for the Greyhounds were as follows: Walt Smyth, first in the 120-yard high hurdles and second in the 220-yard low hurdles; Tom Maskell, first in the lows and fourth in the highs; Tom Volatile, second in the two mile behind teammate George Brown, and third in the mile run.

Also scoring for the Hounds were George Fields, Malcolm Rose, Jack Brunk, Bill Gregoreck, Bernie Bateman, George Kimmerlein and Jim Hockworth.

Loyola Takes 19-1 Contest

by Gene Conroy

Paced by Frank Kimmel and Jim Whalen, who scored three goals apiece, the Greyhound lacrosse team crushed the Green Terrors of Western Maryland College by a 19-to-1 score at Evergreen last Saturday afternoon.

The Hounds were never in trouble, as they ran off to a quick 6-to-0 first quarter score and then lengthened the lead to 10-to-1 at halftime. The Loyolans tossed in nine more goals before the final whistle had blown and at the same time held their opponents scoreless for the second half.

Nine Others Score

Besides Kimmel and Whalen, nine other Greyhounds shared in the day's scoring. Mav Bobbitt, Ben Cook, Lee Thomas and Tom Oaster each accounted for two tallies, while Bob Bradley, Doc Carozza, Joe McLaughlin, Eddie Miller and George Thomas each came up with a singleton.

The highlight of the game came midway in the initial half when George Thomas, a defenseman by position, showed signs of versatility by first clearing the ball, then passing off and finally cutting in to take a pass and hit the upper left-hand corner of the cage for a score. This feat brought a round of applause from the spectators.

Win Evens Record

This win gave the Greyhounds their second victory of the year; on the other side of the ledger are two losses.

For Western Maryland, it was their fifth straight loss of the season. The visitors from Westminster have not as yet registered a win.

18 holes, Cronin defeated the Eagles number one man, Dedrick, 8 and 7.

Simanski also turned in a commendable round of golf for the Hounds, shooting low score on 13 holes as he subdued Coe 7 and 6.

Netmen Lose Twice; Hopkins, C. U. Win

Loyola's Tennis Team dropped its second and third matches of the season last week when it bowed to Catholic U. on Thursday, 4 to 5, and to Johns Hopkins a day later, 3 to 6.

Against the Cardinals Coach Vince Colimore's netters came back from a 1-to-4 deficit, and missed winning by a hair's breadth. The Hounds won the first singles duel, Laroque topping Spencer in straight sets.

The visitors then took four consecutive singles victories, before Tom McDermott gave them their second setback, beating Browning in three sets.

Following this Loyola won two doubles encounters to tie it up, 4-4. In the last match, however, Barnett and McDermott bowed to Keating and Browning in straight sets.

Baseballers Have Seven Tilts On Tap For Next Eleven Days

by Andy Marx

Continuing their energetic 23-game schedule, Lefty Reitz's nine will play seven games in the next eleven days, six of those contests being Mason-Dixon conference battles.

May 1 finds them meeting Western Maryland in Westminster. In their first encounter, the Hounds thumped the Terrors as freshman pitcher Bob Matthews went the entire nine innings to win, 12 to 6.

Although touched for 14 hits, he struck out six men and was considerably aided by nine errors by the losers. It was the Green and Grey's third straight conference victory.

Mountaineers In M-D Test

Two days later, Mt. St. Mary's comes to town for a Mason-Dixon test. This will be the second time the two teams have met this year, the first taking place two days ago.

The Hounds play host the following day to Towson State Teachers, who shut them out last season, 4 to 0. Loyola's veteran squad, however, has ideas to the contrary this year and intend to keep Teachers busy.

After a day of rest, the Hounds travel to Washington College where they meet the Shoremen for the second time this season. The last game ended with the Varsity bingers on top by the score of 16 to 1. Dan Donohue went the distance, giving up seven hits as the Hounds collected 15.

The next day St. Joe of Philadelphia visits Evergreen in a non-league battle. The visitors whipped the Hounds 12 to 4 when the latter traveled to Philadelphia two weeks ago. Three pitchers could not stop the victors then, but Lefty Reitz is aiming for an even split this season in the rivalry between the schools.

May 9th finds Baltimore U. at Evergreen. In the last encounter Mel Wright blew open the game and drove in the winning run with a booming double, enabling his teammates to win 7 to 6. John Amer and Don Semesky shared the pitching duties for the Hounds.

On May 11 Hopkins visits the campus for their traditional battle. On the basis of last year's two victories over them and both teams' showings this year, the Hounds rule a slight favorite.

Bingers Win 4-to-3 Contest As Game Goes Eleven Innings

Loyola's baseball team, with some timely help from the pinch-hitter Bill Lentz and shortstop Ed Hagerty, won its sixth victory of the season at Evergreen on April 20, edging Catholic U., 4 to 3, in 11 innings.

The Greyhounds trailed, 1 to 3, in the last half of the ninth but came to life when substitute Bill Lentz hit a single to deep second, scoring Mike Zedalis and Tom Lind to send the game into extra frames.

Nothing eventful happened in the tenth, but in the last half of the eleventh, with Mike Zedalis aboard, Hagerty pounded a hit to right-center, pushing across the winning run. It was the second time in as many extra-inning contests that the Greyhound shortstop had broken open a close affair with clutch performance.

Danny Donohue went the route for Loyola to gain credit for the win.

Hounds To Play Virginia Here, Take On W. & L. At Lexington

Bolstered by two wins in their last two outings, Bish Baker's spirited stickmen will be seeking their third victory of the current campaign tomorrow afternoon when they encounter a strong University of Virginia ten at Evergreen.

Displaying improved team-play and better scoring in recent games, the Greyhounds will go into the Virginia clash a slight underdog. This year's Cavaliers are highly regarded in lacrosse circles, having lost only to Johns Hopkins, 15 to 6, and to Maryland in an overtime game.

Hooper Rated Tops

The Loyola defense faces a busy afternoon attempting to keep tab on the Cavaliers' ace attackmen, Bert Sadtler and Billy Hooper, one of the game's speediest and trickiest attackmen.

Led by Captain Jerry Laroque, the Greyhound tennis squad added four wins to its record as it handed the teams of Baltimore University, La Salle College, Washington College and Western Maryland College one-sided setbacks.

The first match, played on April 12, saw the Loyolans trounce the Bees of Baltimore U. by a 9-to-0 count. La Salle College of Philadelphia was the next victim of the Hounds as they went down to a 8-to-0 defeat. The match was played at Evergreen on April 14.

Washington and Western Maryland were then conquered by the courtmen by scores of 8 to 0, and 8 to 1, respectively. Both of these contests were held on the Evergreen courts. The first tilt was on April 15, while the latter was staged on the 18th of the month.

The season's most impressive singles victory was turned in by Laroque in the Western Maryland match when he defeated Ned Brown of the Green Terrors in three sets. Laroque came from behind to win the match.

ginia squad and serve to give the battle a local flavor.

Colonels At Lexington

Next Saturday, May 6, the Greyhound lacrossers renew their rivalry with Washington and Lee University, at Lexington, Va.

The Colonels promise to be no easy mark for the Loyola ten which was able to send the Southerners home last year on the short end of an 11-to-6 count. Like their state brethren, the University of Virginia, Washington and Lee counts heavily on its array of Baltimore lacrosse talent to carry the brunt of its experienced team.

Upset Maryland

Thus far, the Colonels have had an up-and-down season. They upset the dopesters' say-so by dropping last year's third-ranking collegiate team, Maryland, in the year's opener. More recently, Syracuse, polled as fifth-place among the net teams, downed the Lexington ten, 16-to-8.

From all accounts, the contest seems to be an evenly matched one and should provide an interesting sixty minutes of good lacrosse.

Washington College will be set to revenge last year's 6-to-4 defeat at Mt. Washington when the Bakermen invade the shore for their annual clash, Wednesday, May 10.

The Chestertown ten showed up well against co-champion Navy in the season's starter but were finally suppressed by a five-point margin. A constantly improving squad, Washington has an overall record of three wins against a single loss at this writing, thumping Western Maryland, 15-to-3, in its last game.

Amer, Donohue Cop M-D Tests

by Joe Steffens

Loyola's College's baseball team has got off to a fast start in this season's Mason-Dixon conference race.

On April 12 the Hounds won their conference opener with Baltimore U., by a score of 7 to 6, at Baltimore U.

John Amer started on the mound for the Greyhounds and remained on the hill until the fifth inning. Don Semesky then took over the pitching chores. The cold weather hindered both teams and their play was somewhat erratic.

Washington College

The following Saturday, April 15, the Green and Grey downed Washington College by a score of 16 to 1, here at Evergreen, to gain its second league win.

Sophomore Danny Donohue handled the hurling duties as he limited the Shoremen to seven hits. The Hounds meanwhile garnered 15 bingles off three Washington College pitchers. Sullivan, the Shoremen's starting twirler, was charged with the loss.

The contest was played in sub-freezing weather. At one stage Coach Reitz built a fire in the dug-out to keep the players warm.

Frank Brower, Washington College center fielder, suffered a broken leg as he attempted to steal a base during the fourth inning.

St. Joseph's

On Monday, April 17 the Evergreen nine journeyed to Philadelphia and suffered its second defeat of the season, at the hands of St. Joseph College, to the tune of 12 to 4.

St. Joe jumped to an early lead as they tagged Loyola's hurlers for five runs in their half of the first inning.

Bob Doyle, who went the distance for the victors, limited the Hounds to seven hits in winning his first game of the season. The Hounds' big inning was the second when they scored two runs on two walks, an error, and a long throw. One of St. Joe's three double plays cut the rally short.

Western Maryland

The Green and Grey jumped back into the win column the following afternoon at the expense of Western Maryland, by a 12 to 6 margin, here at Evergreen. This marked the Hounds' third consecutive conference win in as many starts.

The Loyola nine, although out-hit at the plate, 14 to 9, took full advantage of nine Western Maryland errors in snaring their fifth victory in seven starts.

After being limited to single runs in the second and third innings, the Hounds cut loose with five runs in the fourth frame to establish a seven run lead which the Terrors were never able to overcome.

Undefeated Golfers Win From Bees, Terrors, Jays

With victories over Baltimore University, Johns Hopkins, and Western Maryland and a tie with the Crusaders of Holy Cross, Loyola's powerful golf squad remains undefeated to date.

The linksmen opened the 1950 season with a 7-to-2 win over the Baltimore U. Bees. Jack Cronin, Jack Simanski, Jim Pelisek, and Jack Winterson all won their matches. Mel Beeler was halved, and Walt Sibiski lost 2 down.

Penn State Is 'Crosse Victim

Loyola College's stickmen gained their initial win of the season at the expense of Penn State, by a score of 9 to 4, here at Evergreen on April 14.

Playing in sub-freezing weather, the Greyhounds had to overcome a 1-to-0 deficit in order to break into the win column. Jim Reed, a Baltimore boy who attended Loyola High, grabbed a loose ball in the opening minutes to score for the visitors.

However the Green and Grey gained control of the game as Frank Kimmel, working with an extra man advantage, tied it up two minutes later. Six minutes after that, Charlie Wagner scored to put the Hounds ahead, a lead they never relinquished.

Paced by Jim Whelan and Frank Kimmel, the Greyhounds began to find the range and dented the nets for five more markers before the Nittany Lions were able to score again.

The Hounds were guilty of numerous fouls and officials Gardner Mallonee and James Rowe were forced to penalize the Green and Grey 11 times. Penn State committed only one foul throughout the contest.

Jim Reed annexed scoring honors for the visitors by pumping three goals into the nets. Jim Whelan was the Hounds' mainstay as he equalled Reed's feat. Frank Kimmel was second with two tallies.

with a 78 over the long Mt. Pleasant lay-out.

Playing on a cold wind-swept course Cronin shot a 4 over par 76 to lead the Hounds to a 6½-to-2½ upset over Johns Hopkins, last year's Mason-Dixon Conference champs.

Simanski, Beeler, Sibiski, and Pelisek played good golf to beat their opponents. Jack Cooney lost in a close match.

Cronin and Simanski had little trouble in disposing of Jack Morgan and Warren Hassler, the Blue Jays' number one and two men, respectively.

Beeler and Sibiski pulled a mild upset by defeating Hopkins' strong three and four combination of Capt. Bob Patterson and Bob Simpson.

Playing for the second straight day under winter-like weather conditions, the Greyhound club-swingers gained a 4½ to 4½ tie with a strong Holy Cross team. Cronin, Simanski, and Cooney all lost close matches, but Beeler, Sibiski, and Pelisek came through with wins.

Cronin and Simanski managed to halve the best-ball match while Beeler and Sibiski won their best-ball match to tie the score. Paul Harney of Holy Cross was low scorer of the day with a 78.

Sophomore Jim Pelisek shot a 2 over par 74 at Bonnie View to capture low medal honors in the Western Maryland match which Loyola won, 7 to 2. Jack Simanski fired a 76 in winning his match. Mel Beeler and Bill Gross easily won by large margins. Walt Sibiski came from behind to gain a tie.

Court, Track And Golf Teams Plan Full Schedule

Tennis

Of the ten scheduled matches for the next two weeks, the Greyhound tennis team will take to the courts eight times in conference competition. Four of the seven conference teams have primarily exploited their talents here only to be defeated decisively by the defending Mason-Dixon champs.

Johns Hopkins journeys here on May 8 for a match which should be closer than previous ones. The Jays have virtually the same team returning that was beaten, 8 to 1 and 7 to 2, by the Greyhounds last year, but they have built up a spirit of confidence which will be hard to overcome.

Track

The Greyhound thinclads will round out their dual meet competition schedule for 1950 as they meet two cinder foes, on April 29, and May 6.

In the first of these meets a new opponent will supply the opposition, the thinclads traveling to the University of Scranton, in Scranton, Pa., for a non-conference meet. The Tommies have met no foes in this sector, so comparison on the basis of team scores against mutual opponents is impossible.

Coach Bill McElroy will be satisfied with a repeat performance of last year when his boys step out against American University on May 6, in Washington. The hosts' team is well stocked with last season's talent, something that bodes no good, inasmuch as Loyola eked out a last-minute victory in '49, by a 65-to-60 score.

The Eagles are extolling this year the attributes of Mr. Ferguson, a lad who has clipped off the 100-yard dash in 9.9 and the 220 in 23.5, very good time indeed. His time in the shorter dash is probably the best in the conference.

Golf

Loyola's undefeated golf squad will be after its sixth victory of the season this afternoon when they travel to Philadelphia to encounter the divot-diggers of Villanova College. Tomorrow, the Greyhounds match shots with the Terrapins of the University of Maryland in an away match. Next Wednesday afternoon, May 3, the Green and Grey will meet the Mount Saint Mary's Mountaineers in a match to be played at Mount Pleasant.

Thinclads Triumph

In prepping for their ensuing win in the Catholic University Invitational meet, the Greyhound runners managed to split even in a duo of meets. A win was registered by the thinclads in a triangular meet held at Evergreen on Friday of last week. Running against the Hounds were the squads of Towson State Teachers and Mount Saint Mary's College. The loss was to Saint Joseph's College of Philadelphia. In the triangular meet, the Green and Grey amassed 56½ points to St. Mary's 38; Towson accounted for 21. St. Joe was an 83-to-34 winner.

Smyth Shows Versatility In Athletics And Studies

by Daniel Downey

J. Walter Smyth

Another Loyola student who has made his mark on both scholastic and extracurricular records at Loyola is J. Walter Smyth, BS-I pre-medical student.

The July '50 graduate eagerly awaits the day when he becomes a surgeon, stating, "The happiest day of my life was when I received notice of my acceptance into the University of Maryland School of Medicine."

The twenty-one-year-old track star received his high school education at Mt. St. Joseph's, where he was a member of the varsity track team for three years. Upon graduation he entered Loyola.

While at Loyola, Smyth has been active in the Junior and Senior Sodalties, and was instrumental in the continuation of the practice of recitation of the daily Rosary, and in the International Relations Club, of which he now holds the office of vice-president. At the beginning of the year, he was elected secretary of the Student Council and later was made a member of Alpha Sigma Nu, national Jesuit honor fraternity, in addition to being selected for inclusion in "Who's Who Among American College Students."

A biology major, Walt is president of the Mendel Club, a group which conducts seminars on topics of importance to the medical profession.

Not content with scholastic activities, he also takes part in parish affairs of Blessed Sacrament Church, serving since the sixth grade as an altar boy.

Mask And Rapier To Hold Elections

The Loyola College Mask and Rapier will hold elections of new officers today at 12:30 in classroom 5D.

The elections were originally planned for April 15 at the post-performance party, but because of the postponement the elections were not held.

Presently, Joseph Sills and Howard France are president and vice-president, respectively, having stepped up from their former offices of secretary and treasurer at the resignation of George Herman and Emerson Clarke at midterm.

Bellarmino Debaters Discuss Party Plans

The Bellarmino Debating Society of Loyola College held a meeting on Tuesday, April 23, at which plans were discussed concerning the club's annual banquet.

Also at the meeting, the members heard a preview debate of the annual Jenkins Prize Debate which is to be held on Friday, May 5.

No election date for new officers has as yet been set. The present officers of the society are Edward O. Clarke, president; Bertram Morales, vice-president; and Robert McDonald, secretary.

Annual Latin Medal To Be Inaugurated

Under the auspices of the Classics Academy, a medal will be presented to the student who obtains the highest grade in a Latin examination to be held on May 2, at 3:15 o'clock.

The examination will contain mostly sight translation and possibly some Latin composition. It will be open to the entire student body, and will be judged on a competitive basis.

Drs. P. Edward Kaltenbach and John V. Walsh and Mr. Hansford L. Ferris will act as judges for this annual award.

Capt. Paul Buskey, Middlebury, '38 Air Intelligence, U.S. Air Force

Candidates . . .

Passion Play will be evident."

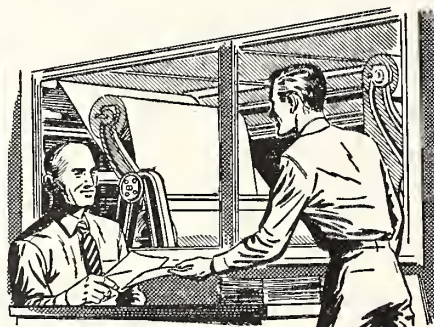

F. Xavier Trainor, at 26, is the oldest of the candidates. He was formerly prefect of the Sodality. His policy is "Greater concentration of student effort, better organization of student activity. No issue will be avoided."

Herbert Meinert is the other candidate for President of the A. A. For the past three years he has been a vital cog in Lefty Reitz's court machines. "My policy," he says, "is to do all in my power to give the students what they want within reason. I will make no rash promises, but will concentrate on an efficient administration."

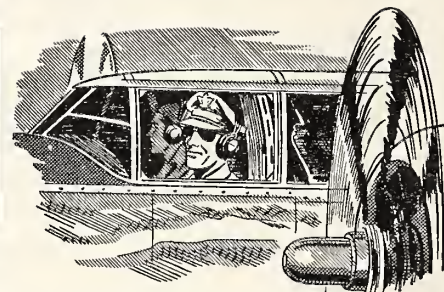

Elections will take place next Friday in the cafeteria under the supervision of Emidio Bianco, current president of the Student Council.

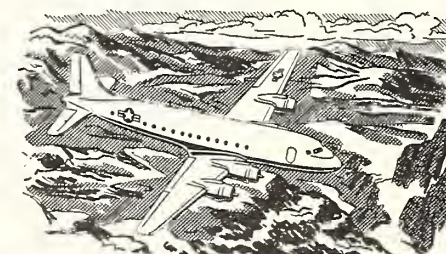

An excellent student at Middlebury College, Vermont, Paul found time to win the coveted All Sports Trophy in his senior year. He graduated in June, 1938.

He then joined a coated paper mill firm as research and control man. Pearl Harbor changed all that—Paul went to Maxwell Field to begin Aviation Cadet training.

An outstanding Cadet, 2nd Lt. Paul Buskey was held over as an instructor after graduation. Then he was assigned as a pilot in the Air Transport Command.

His big plane education was topped with 23 missions over the far-famed "Hump," flying C-54 transports. After V-J Day, he stayed on in the Far East until March of 1948—specializing in Air Intelligence.

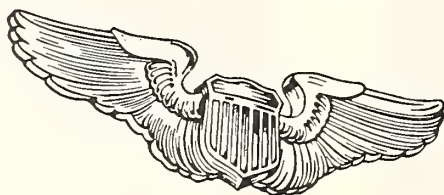

Back home, after accepting a Regular Air Force Commission, Captain Buskey went to Air Tactical school, was there rated an outstanding student, and won assignment to Command and Staff school.

Today, Captain Buskey is an Air Intelligence Officer on MATS Headquarters Staff at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington, D. C. He looks forward to a rewarding future in the U. S. Air Force.
